

The Institute for Value Management (IVM) invite you to join us at:

A conference on ‘Value Management Redefined’ - 11 October 2017

Different organisations use varying approaches for improving how they manage value for their customers, stakeholders and shareholders - be it through applying the principles of Benefits Management, Lean Thinking, or Value Management itself.

Given that these and other approaches have similar goals, isn't it time that the discipline of Value Management itself was redefined to encompass the best practise of these other disciplines? Or perhaps to act as the over-arching 'glue' which binds and aligns them?

The event will begin with presentations which explore each of these disciplines and how they aim to 'add value'. We shall then ask for your participation in exploring the benefits and practicalities of aligning various efforts within your own organisations.

Speakers include knowledgeable industry leaders in each area:

- Value Management – Julie A Warriner from Network Rail and Chair of the IVM
- Lean Thinking – Richard Daley from Turner & Townsend’s Operational Excellence team
- Benefits Management – Steve Parker from the IVM
- Another speaker to be confirmed

Venue: Turner & Townsend offices, One New Change, London EC4M 9AF

Time: 14.00 to 18:00 hours

Tea / coffee will be provided
